I wanted to reach out to update you on the status of our ship date. After a lot of consideration, we've decided to push back the date and will now be shipping units to pre-order customers on July 22nd.

This is not a decision we take lightly. There are hundreds of thousands of people in over 150 countries who have pre-ordered Leap Motion controllers, some as long as a year ago. These people are part of our community and there is nothing more important to us than getting them devices as quickly as possible.

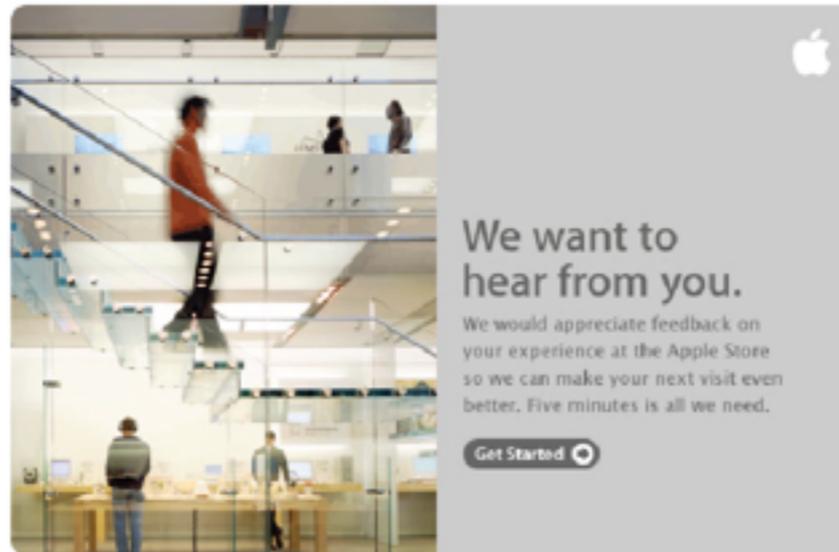

We've made a lot of progress. When we first started taking orders back in May we were twelve (very tired) people in a basement. Now we are eighty (although still tired and possibly still in a basement). We've manufactured over six hundred thousand devices and delivered twelve thousand to amazing developers who are building applications that let people do things that just wouldn't have been possible before.

I really appreciate your patience. I know it's been a long wait. Everyone at Leap Motion is working tirelessly to make sure that the wait is worth it. Thanks so much for your help and support.

David and I will be participating in an open video Q&A using Google Hangout tomorrow at 11:30am Pacific time. To join our hangout, please visit our Google+ page. If you have any questions please don't hesitate to contact our support team at support@leapmotion.com or my personal email (buckwald@leapmotion.com). As always, we will not charge pre-order customer's credit cards until the devices have actually shipped.

Thanks again.

Michael Buckwald

Techniques

What's the goal?

What are we designing, anyway?

HTML email templates

- Code works in all major email clients
easier said than done
- Meets specifications of your ESP
dynamic variables and formatting
- Is editable by your team
includes assets appropriate for your team's capabilities

Deliverables

What do I get?

- HTML Documents (installed in your ESP)
- Web-ready graphics (uploaded to a server)
- Layered source files (.psd's)

Design

Keep it stupid, simple.

Distill your look & feel

- Email is a light touchpoint. Don't muck it up.
- File size is a major factor.
- Space and attention spans are minimal.
- Expect the worst upon delivery.

Recommendations

Again, tread lightly.

- Consider how users will consume your message
- Check YOUR analytics (vs. general)
- Look into responsive frameworks
- Expect some trial and error
- Expect it to get better in time
- If you're paying someone to create templates, recommend frameworks
- Be practical about the impact of any solution before imposing it upon your team

Tips

Code...

- LEARN HTML
- Never copy and paste from MS Word
- Learn to love tables
- Avoid semantic tags and modern, standards-based best practices
- Use explicit inline styling

Images...

- Keep image sizes down to < 100K
- Avoid using images for type
  - Remember, most email clients hide images by default
- Use ALT tags as they were intended
  - Stuff breaks. Style your alt text
- Include image dimensions
- Use border="0"
- Use style="display:block;" for seamless images
- jpegs are for photos, gifs are for logos
- Get good at optimizing with "Save for web..."

Little things...

Subject line

- Compelling and action-oriented
- Show some personality
- Don't use all caps
- Avoid words like “Free” or “Viagra”
- Keep subjects fresh, even on recurring emails
- Try using localization or dates
- Keep it short: 50 characters or fewer
- Split test & repeat

Little things...

Navigation

- Include primary navigation links to reinforce site structure and increase traffic
- Build unique urls when possible to track sources
  - » Google URL builder
- Use graphics only if necessary
- Disregard nav for promotional emails where user is given a single call to action

Little things...

SPAM Check

- Understand CAN SPAM requirements
- Test email for SPAM triggers
- Troubleshoot and test again, dammit

CHEAT CODE

Dude, seriously. Cheat.
